Fort Worth Wins Dixie Title Again.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 2.—Fort Worth, Texas, league pennant winners, won the baseball championship of the south today by defeating Memphis, 3 to 2, in the deciding game of the post-season Dixie series for the title.

It was the fourth time Fort Worth has won the title—the five times the Texas league and Southern association title holders have met in post-season battles.

PUTTING~

In putting, is it proper to place the putter in front of the ball to aid the eye in detecting the right line to the hole?

Answered by BOB CRICKSHANK.

Runner up in National open championship, 1925, and the man who, in 1924, defeated Hutchinson, Sarazen, and Barnes in an invitation tournament at St. Joseph, Mo. Runner up in Pittsburgh tournament for professional golfers, 1922, being defeated only by Sarazen.

Probably this does help many players get the right line to the hole, but I never thought of it in that light. The reason why I place the putter in front of the ball I call this the address) is to gain complete control of the club on the backswing. Personally, I always make up my mind as to the line to the hole, before I take my stance. During the address of the ball, the line can be picked up again and all the more attention can be paid to holding the body perfectly still and to the actual hitting of the ball.

Georgetown Knicker Ball Over Fano, Reading 8, Paul 4 to 2.

Baltimore, Oct. 2.—With a thrilling rally in the ninth inning, the Baltimore Orioles came from behind to win the opening game of the "little world" series from St. Paul of the American association, today, 4 to 3. The international leaguers came to bat in the last inning one run to the lead. Mabel went out on an easy roller to third, but Connally stirred up hope with a double. Then Jacobson, who had appeared rather weak in his previous times at bat, went to the plate and set the 5,000 spectators wild by knocking the first ball pitched by Markle over the right field fence for a homer.

The contest was a great pitching duel between Lefty Groves, Jack Lunn's premier moundman, and Cliff Markle, one of the association's brightest lights.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Johnny Evers, White Sox manager, evened the count in the Chicago city series today by fanning over the National League Cubs, 12 to 7, in the second game of the series at the American league park.

It was a lucky hitting result that brought the Sox their victory. This American leaguer fanned out 14 hits off four Cubs hurlers and the blows were nicely bunched. The Cubs got 17 hits off Hollis Thurston and Mike Creggon, but could not bunch them when his meant runs.

Tony Kaufman started on the slab for the Cubs but was taken out after the Sox had scored a single run in the first inning and two in the second.

World Series Pitching Heroes By Peg Murray

Among the pitchers who have won everlasting fame in post-season championships, the names of Mathewson, Bender and Combs stand out above all others. "Chief" Bender, the great Indian pitcher of the Athletics, won six victories, which is more than any other hurler has to his credit. Bender's victories were in 1908 over the Giants, and in 1910 over the Cubs; in both 1912 and 1913 he beat the Giants twice. The great Matty, who single-handed shut out the Athletics in three games altogether—two in 1911, two in 1912, and one in 1913. "Big Six" pitched more innings than any other pitcher—103 2-3. Some pitchers just last about one-third of one inning.

FRISCO ISSUES DIVIDEND ON ITS PREFERRED STOCK

New York, Oct. 2.—Inauguration of dividends on the preferred stock of the St. Louis-San Francisco railway company at the rate of $1.50 a share quarterly has been authorized by the directors, who at the same time discussed the possibility of making an initial payment on the common shares at an early date. No dividends have been paid by the road since the organization of the Frisco system was completed in 1916.

Payment of preferred dividends is expected to mark the first step in re-adjustment of the company's capital structure which has been under discussion for many months. Preliminary proposals centered about the issuance of an additional preferred or common shares to be offered in annual installments to present stockholders.

AGED RESIDENT OF ENGLAND

James Wilson, born at Halifax, Saccumbus at age of 92 years at Great Barrington.

James Wilson, a native of Halifax, England, but for 15 years a resident of the United States, and who for the past 14 years has resided with his daughter, Mrs. William E. Ford, 24 Ford avenue, died at that home at 3:30 Wednesday morning as a result of the infirmities of age, he having passed the count of 92 years. Mr. Wilson, through his cheery and pleasant manner, had made many friends during his stay in this city, who will deeply regret his passing and who will unite with many friends of the family in expressions of sympathy to the family.

Funeral services will be held Saturday evening at 7 o'clock from the Ford residence, with Dr. J. W. Flynn of the First Methodist Episcopal church officiating, and the funeral party will leave early Sunday morning for Great Barrington, Vt., where burial will be made.

Surviving Mr. Wilson, besides the daughter, Mrs. Ford, are another daughter, Mrs. Wilford Smith of Pittsfield, Mass., a son, William H. Wilson of 41 Ford avenue, a nephew, James Wilson Ford of Bennington, Vt., and a niece, Miss Harriette A. Wilson, who is now attending the New England college, besides two nieces in England.

Mr. Wilson was born in Halifax, England, March 18, 1832, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wilson. He came to the United States in 1850, it taking him 42 days to cross the ocean in one of the fastest sailing vessels of that day. Mr. Wilson was a merchant and after visiting various cities in this state moved to Great Barrington, Vt., which for the remainder of his active life was his home with the exception of three years after 1885, when he conducted a general store in Oneonta. He was united in marriage with Harriette Curtis in 1856, and she was the mother of his three children. He was later twice married, after the

MAY VISIT THE DAY NURSERY

Think It a Great Place for Children to Stay While Mother and Dad and the Rest Are Away.

Dear Mothers and Fathers Who Work:

Yesterday I went over to visit the day nursery. You know the place I mean, at 20 Funda avenue. The house has just been taken over by the Family Social Work association and they call it a day nursery and home for working girls, and the name aren't split with capital letters either. It's not a real home but a real home.

Why don't you just go around and see it for yourself. You'd know in a minute what I mean. Take the sidewalk. It was all spick and span and the lawn was level and neat with little spikes of green grass shooting up out of the earth. There were three big shade trees in front and in the rear the yard stretched back beyond some apple trees, ran underneath an actor and ended in a vegetable garden.

And then indoors: you've never seen such a gay little sitting room. It makes you think of apple orchards and cherry trees in bloom. Maybe because the draperies and cushions are so cheerful and because the carpet is soft like grass under your feet. Anyhow, you want to stay in that room.

But the place that you'll simply love is the play room with fifteen little kindergarten chairs all in a row, a table and a cabinet with fifteen blue and white plates and cups and saucers all ready for fifteen little kiddies to use. And there's another cabinet all full of bandages and things for hurt fingers and cut fingers. And there are petunias growing in a window box.

So do you see that this is the very place to leave your baby while you are at work? The little tots who aren't old enough to go to school are the ones I mean. You wouldn't have to worry about them at all for they would have the time of their lives and there would be a nurse to look after them all day. If you live near the nursery you can bring your child yourself but if you are too far away someone will call for it. The fee for each child is 25c a day.

And if you know of any girls who are working in the city and haven't a home you'll tell them about the nursery? There are two big double rooms and a single room attractively furnished and there's going to be a cozy little sitting room just for these girls to use. And there is another bedroom on the first floor for the use of transients.

I like to tell my friends about such a good discovery as this. Will you tell your friends too? May.

AUTO DRIVER ARRESTED

Carol H. Stryker, Oneonta, Taken by Troopers, Accused of Driving His Car While Intoxicated.

Carol H. Stryker, giving his residence as Oneonta, was arrested on the Stamford road, in the town of Harpersfield, late Thursday night by State Troopers, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Stryker was arraigned before Justice Clark of Stamford, waived examination and was released under $500 bail to await the action of the grand jury.

According to the State Troopers, complaints from persons living along the highway, who declared that Stryker was driving his machine on the property and when they sought to persuade him that the road was the place to drive an automobile he wanted to argue and fight.

The State Troopers declared that when they went out on the man's trail, they found several places where he had driven into front doorways and made himself generally obnoxious by his belligerent attitude when they attempted to have him move on. The troopers declare that when they finally came up with him, they found him in a drunken stupor in his car, which was parked on the highway. His chauffeur's license was suspended pending the outcome of the case.

CALLED "MEANEST THIEF"

Judge VanWoert Finds Tobin to Jail for 180 Days—Then Ingridate.

"I think you are the meanest thief I ever had before me."

Such was the opinion expressed yesterday afternoon in city court by Judge Lee D. VanWoert, in passing judgment upon James L. Tobin by sending him to the county lockup at Cooperstown for 180 days after Tobin had pleaded guilty to stealing a quantity of clothing from Burton Wilcox, 3 Grove street.

And thereby hangs a tale which the court and police declare is one of deep ingratitude on the part of Tobin.

Tobin first was arrested Wednesday, September 24, on a charge of public intoxication. When he was brought to the police station, he managed to get the key of his capers with a tale of how he had come to Oneonta to see a "dear friend" that night. He declared that with no intention of doing wrong, he was invited into taking what he thought would prove to be a little innocent drink but which proved to be anti-foisted white mule or liquid of a similar nature.

Tale of Woe.

Tobin's tale of woe won sufficient consideration from the officials so that they telephoned his "dear friend," saying that "Jim's detained, cannot see you tonight."

The next morning before Judge VanWoert, Tobin's apparently griefed and penitent attitude still was much in evidence. Of course, he pleaded guilty and told the court all about how sorry he was and how he appreciated what an awful thing he had done and—yes, he never would do it again.

But while showing a somewhat sympathetic attitude, Judge VanWoert decided that Tobin's story was not the situation entirely unswathed. So he fined him $10. But Tobin did not have money enough to pay his fine. So the judge let him go in his own custody on his faithful promise that he would go out and get the money by the following morning.

No Tobin, No Money.

When the next morning came, there was no sign of Tobin on his money. In fact the first the police saw of him again was yesterday afternoon when he was again arrested.

A few days ago, Mr. Wilcox came to the police office and told the authorities that his room had been robbed. He said that he suspected Tobin who lived in the same house because the landlady had seen Tobin coming out of his room. He already had befriended Tobin by giving him a coat and hat but when he found his suitcase, alarm clock and other articles missing as well as Tobin he decided to call on the police who immediately went hunting for Tobin.

The police soon got track of Tobin by finding a junk dealer to whom he is alleged to have sold the property he took from Mr. Wilcox's room for the sum of seventy-five cents. Soon after this Tobin again was in jail and the next step was taken by Judge VanWoert who used plain English in telling him what he thought of his conduct and during which the court gave him 180 days to think the matter over.

JOLLY ELKS' GATHERING

Officers and Members of Oneonta Lodge Attend Schenecus Banquet.

Schenecus and Maryland held a banquet last evening at Hotel Potter at Schenecus at which were guests the officers of Oneonta lodge, as well as several members of the Glee club of the organization and about fifty enjoyed a fine chicken dinner which was served. Practically all of the "bills" in Schenecus and Maryland were present and the event proved so enjoyable that it is planned by the officers to attend a number of similar gatherings to be held throughout the territory of Oneonta.

Next week the officers and members of the Glee club will attend a banquet at Worcester, and at some later date visit Walton and Chadfield.

During the dinner E. F. Theyson of Schenecus, chairman of the dinner committee, presented to the assemblage a beautiful bouquet on behalf of J. N. Smith and Mrs. Nettie Walker of Amsterdam, summer guests at the hotel and friends of Host Potter.

A quartet from the Glee club lead singing during the meal as well as rendering a number of excellent selections.

Among the banquet speakers were Exalted Ruler F. H. Marx and Chaplain J. A. Judge of this city and District Attorney E. R. Campbell and H. Bernard of Schenecus.

H-Y Club Organization Meeting.

An organization meeting of the H-Y club was held at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock and following an excellent dinner, Captain J. A. Judge, pastor of the Calvin Memorial Universalist church, pointed out to the boys the value of clean living and good habits, two things which he felt every boy should seriously consider to assure giving himself a square deal.

Later the boys discussed their program for the coming year, and much enthusiasm was aroused in the organization.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our appreciation to the many friends, relatives and organizations for the kindnesses shown to Mrs. Thomas during her last illness. Every call, note and gift was as helpful as a sunbeam to a drooping flower. We also wish to thank our friends for the beautiful flowers and for any service rendered during our late bereavement.

Hunt's Washington Letter

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—If La Follette polls a big vote in November, some politicians think there will be a complete party realignment in the ensuing four years.

Their theory is that the more advanced elements in both the Republican and Democratic groups will secede and join the Progressives, that the Republican and Democratic conservative elements will coalesce, that there will be two new parties then, a Conservative and a Liberal, and no more—no other of any importance, at any rate.

BUT most politicians don't think so.

They agree that parties are not immortal—they're born and they die. They believe it possible that a new party has just been born, but they doubt if either of the older parties is anywhere near to death.

In their opinion, if the La Follette-Whelan ticket makes a strong run, the country will have three parties for a long time to come.

ACCORDING to this second school of political thought, the Republicans have settled down definitely to conservatism, and it might be assumed that they would attract Democratic conservatives to their ranks, but for one thing.

That one thing, the work on the same line of argument, is the negro question in the south.

And that one thing, the political dogmatists predict, will prove sufficient to keep the south in a class by itself—the Democratic class.

WILL, then, the Democrats coalesce with the Progressives? The Republicans will represent the conservative element. The Progressives will represent the advanced element. The Democrats will represent the middle element in the south. These elements, if the Democrats are right, won't mix. The conservatives and the liberals certainly won't mix. Their ideas basically conflict. It isn't likely the southern Democrats will trust their side of the negro question in any mixture whatever—they want to keep it pure.

That's the way most politicians have the thing figured out.

THREE party groups in Congress may be all right. Some say it will be a mighty good thing—that it will keep Congress from doing so much lawmaking, that legislation will have to be pretty good to get a two-group combination in its favor, that it will be possible no longer to railroad mere party measures through.

THIS may be so. But a three-party system is going to be mighty awkward when it comes to electing a president.

A candidate, to be elected president, must get a majority of all votes cast.

With three pretty evenly balanced parties, no candidate ever could do this. That would mean throwing the election into the House of Representatives every four years. And the House, also divided into three more or less equal groups, would deadlock every time, too. So the Senate's vice presidential choice would be, really, the presidential choice.

The people, in short, wouldn't vote for the president. They'd vote for the vice president for president.

ROLISHING the electoral college, which some have suggested, wouldn't help matters a bit, either. A popular vote can make quite evenly three ways, so that no candidate has a "majority over all," as easily as the electoral college can.

The only alternative would seem to be to let the plurality winner take the job, and that would mean having a minority president all the time.

Besides, the opposition would have to be changed, though in three there surely surely that, 2

Sisters Hold Swim Records

On the beach two sister swim champions in Corinne Condon (left) and Helen Condon (right). Helen holds every mid-western A. A. U. record from the 25-yard to the 220-yard free-style swims, save the 50-yard free style, which is held by Sister Corinne. The two girls are said to be the best sister swimming combination in the world.

DANUBE'S DELTA
A WATERY MAZE

Its Many Mouths Present Innumerable Lairs for Piratically Inclined.

Washington, D. C.—Playing hide and seek with Romanian gunboats in the sixteen mouths of the Danube river, a rubber chieftain called Terrence, self-styled "King of the Swamp," is reported to have brought shipping on the great river to a standstill.

"Standing well to the front among the rivers of the world the Danube with its many mouths, presents innumerable lairs for the piratically inclined," the National Geographic society says in a bulletin from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

"After sprawling in a great angle around the barrier of Dobruja, continues the bulletin, 'the so-called blue Danube drops its load of mud and sand gathered from eight nations of Europe in a large delta at the western end of the Black sea. This delta takes the form of a huge, equilateral triangle fifty miles long on each side. The northern border is the Kilia branch, the south, the St. Georges branch, while on the east is the Black sea shore. The two main branches of the Danube are subdivided time and again in their never-ending impossible task of trying to make land and flow over it at the same time.

"Bisecting the triangle is the Sulina branch of the Danube which receives practically all of the shipping trade, since a deep channel to the upper river is maintained through it by the concerted action of the governments of Europe. The treaty of Paris of 1856 created the European commission of the Danube and ordered it to make the mouths of the great river open to navigation within two years. Evidence of how little the diplomats knew of the engineering problems involved in making a huge river serve mankind is shown by the fact that the commission not only worked two years but is still at work.

"Of all the varieties of earth surface, deltas rank high as the most useless to civilization. Mounds are admired for their inspiration, deserts hold rare beauty for those who seek it, but no one goes to a delta even to hunt ducks if he can help it. The Danube's delta is particularly unattractive since the peasants have not been able to adapt it to agriculture as sugar cane planters have large parts of the Mississippi delta. Some deltas such as those of the Amazon and the Yangtze consist of large islands surrounded by considerable water, but the Danube's waters run through a vast swamp which was almost a complete barrier to navigation before the European commission of the Danube took a hand.

"In country that is neither land nor water the reeds and willows grow command and do not catch malaria. Deprived of timber the peasant fishermen put the reeds to many uses. Willow is used for basket making and for fish weirs. A plumed reed is cut for fuel and still another kind is woven into mats or used as thatch. Inhabitants of the Danube delta are mostly Russian fishermen. Those who are irritated at fishing restrictions in the United States can appreciate what a fisherman's paradise they live in by comparison. The Rumanian government considers fishing a government monopoly, and every commercial catch must be brought to a government customs house to be auctioned off.

"By the construction of levees and piers, the European commission of the Danube has opened a channel to Galatz, the Rumanian naval port, capable of receiving shipping up to 1,000 tons. The traffic in and out of the river amounts to more than 5,000,000 tons annually. By this route Rumania, fifth nation in petroleum production sends out much of her oil to the world. From the loess plains of Bessarabia and southeast Rumania, continuations of the Black Earth belt of Russia, come tons of cereals and even American corn which is a staple Rumanian product.

"Before the Sulina channel was made products were brought to the sea in lighters and put aboard ships waiting in the open roadstead. Once a heavy storm arose and dashed 24 sailing vessels and many lighters on shore with the loss of 300 lives. Such a disaster is now impossible.

Danube Shorter Than Mississippi. "The Danube rises in the Alps and flows 1,770 miles to the Black sea, breaking through the Carpathian mountains at the Iron gate, which is the Culebra cut of the Balkans. It is about 750 miles shorter than the Mississippi, and although it drains a great part of Europe outside of Russia, the Danube basin is only one-fourth of that of the Mississippi. The Nile, like the Danube, has many mouths, a recent map showing eleven. The Mississippi once divided into many sizable streams to reach the Gulf, but engineers have succeeded in guiding most of its force into a single channel.

"It may be that Terrence, the Danube pirate, is using the unhabited Isle of Serpents off the mouth of the river for the headquarters of his fleet. This precipitous island about a mile in circumference squares to Grecian history and is supposed to be the home of the spirit of Achilles. Great flocks of white-winged sea gulls frequent its rocky slopes together with the black crows from which they derive their name.

He Stays Home at Night

After nine years happily married, and her husband in all those 55 years hasn't been out one single night later than 10 o'clock. Famed Malamute Dog Seems Destined to Go

Anchorage, Alaska.—The malamute dog, for many years the famed breed of the north, apparently is destined to go.

With the coming of railroads, dog teams were driven further into the interior. And now the prevalence of reindeer herds and the growth of the market garden and the town lot garden have caused restrictions to be drawn around the malamute until he is coming to be classed a nuisance in the more settled parts of southern Alaska.

The malamute had his genesis in the wolves and wild dogs of the North. All fowls and quadrupeds were his common prey. But when, in more modern days, a malamute began pulling down reindeer and the live stock of farmers, he was treated as a wolf and hunted down.

Owing to the light demand for dogs, it is difficult to procure pure bred specimens south of the Yukon, and the one-time aristocrat of the Arctic is becoming mixed with the blood of so many mongrels that he has almost lost his identity.

Dog Has Bank Account:

Makes Own Deposits

Chicago.—Jim Elbert, an artistic building, earns his own cash and deposits it in the bank as a fund against the infirmities of age. So far as known, he is the only dog with a bank account in his own name.

Jim is owned by Mrs. Orla Elbert of Sheridan road and he earns his money by going about the premises and putting things in their proper places. He gets a dime for going to bed promptly, and if he whines or barks his pay is cut off. He carries baskets to and from the market and gets an extra quarter for watching the automobile. If he keeps down from the seat and plays with another dog he loses the quarter.

Once a week he takes his collection of quarters and dimes to the bank, stands in front of the receiving teller's window on his hind legs, gets his book back and trots home. His balance is $25 with no withdrawals.

Teach Clergy to Speak

London.—The art of oration has been so neglected in the training of young clergymen that complaints have been made to the authorities on the subject. As a result it is planned to give three young men training in good speaking.

SERGEANT HAS ATTRACTIVE JOB

Nothing at All to Do and Has Private to Do It for Him.

New London, Conn.—When it comes to sitting pretty on the top of the world and letting your feet hang down, Sergt. Joseph Eros, United States army, stands in a class by himself. He has nothing whatever to do, and an enlisted man to do it for him. That situation, as any back private would testify, is as close to heaven as any sergeant has a right to hope to get.

Sergeant Eros commands the garrison of Fort Mansfield, a sea coast fortification a dozen miles east of here at Watch Hill, R. I. Furthermore, he and his lone private, Harry Dell, constitute the whole garrison. It is doubtful whether any other sergeant anywhere is as well-found as Sergeant Eros. To plant the poles of his garrison shows on he has 98 acres of reservation—48 acres for each foot. To shelter his head he has no less than 25 buildings, including officers' quarters, barracks and hospital. He has an extensive system of waterworks and sewers, a network of macadam roads and a good half mile of granolithic walk along the ocean front. He has a large parade ground to march on; an elaborate though dismantled system of electric lights, and a perfect maze of buried telephone and telegraph cables.

Battery of Eight-Inch Guns.

To defend himself, his private and his country, he has three batteries of eight-inch guns, two emplacements of rapid fire, a mine central station and emplacements for mammoth searchlights.

Of course, he also has certain responsibilities. As sole found of authority in the fort he is not merely commander, but also personnel officer and material officer. He is perpetual officer of the day and officer of the guard. If he should find it necessary to go into action, he would be fire commander, support commander, mine commander, communication officer, range officer, emplacement officer, mine field officer, battery commander, signal officer, ordnance officer, observer, plotter and gun pointer, unless he let Harry Dell do the pointing. But Harry himself would be fairly busy as gun-pit detail, azimuth setter, elevation setter, powder-serving detail, truck detail, sponge detail and range and deflection recorder, besides acting as orderly, running the searchlights and answering the telephone.

In these piping times of peace, of course, Sergeant Eros' duties are a little less onerous, though at that he naturally holds a long list of the special ratings peculiar to his highly technical branch of the service. He is, for instance, the post sergeant major of Fort Mansfield and its electrician, sergeant, ordnance and quartermaster and commissary sergeant, signal sergeant, mine sergeant and chief mine planter.

Has Time for Family.

When he isn't tinkering round with one or another of these jobs or inspecting Harry Dell, or drilling Harry in company formation, or making the rounds of Harry when Harry is standing sentry, Sergeant Eros relaxes in the bosom of his family. For he is a married man, with his wife and little boy installed in one of the residences on officers' row which suits their fancy.

And he gets a fair amount of relaxation, for Fort Mansfield, a quarter of a century ago an obsolete fortification defending the eastern entrance to Long Island sound, is now practically abandoned, though a recent survey has even carried out by engineers who suggested the reconstruction of a solid masonry and steel aviation station.

It consists of a crescent-shaped peninsula, some three miles long and a few hundred feet wide, which juts out into the sea as a continuation of the Watch Hill bathing beach. Before the fort was built the long sandy strip was known as Napier's Point. Skirted on the south by Fishers Island sound and on the north by Little Narragansett bay, the peninsula forms a natural breakwater. Its really beautiful harbor would form a safe haven for flying boats, with full protection from the tempestuous sea that sometimes roll in from the Atlantic.

Like Deserted Village.

In its present condition Fort Mansfield makes one think of Goldsmith's deserted village. But the government engineers had an enormous job on their hands when they converted the extensive area of sand dunes into what was at that time a modern fortification. Work on it began about 1894 and a garrison first occupied the place in 1901. When it was abandoned in 1911 three batteries of stone and cement had been built and armed, the largest with two eight-inch guns. The last company to occupy the post was the Eighty-first artillery, with a strength of 101 men and 20 officers.

On the land approach to Fort Mansfield there is still a sign, somewhat weather-beaten, warning visitors not to enter the reservation without obtaining a pass or permit. The impression thus given that the fort is still doing martial business at the old stand is quickly dispelled by a tour of the grounds. The masonry of the concrete is crumbling to rubble. The big guns have all been dismantled and shipped to other stations, and the water hydrants are smooth, rusted and shabby or half buried by the growth of shifting sand. A heavy overgrowth of plants and vines has overtaken the coral from the fairly well, but some of the big guns have rusted away and only remained the building. The granolithic walk has also come to its share of damage, having been so thoroughly undermined that it suggests a recent earthquake.

No One Larger as Fort.

The fort was abandoned because there is no real need of big guns there today. The long-range monsters mounted at Fort Wright, Fishers Island and at Forts Michie and Terry, on Gull and Plum islands, fully command the eastern and southern approaches from the Atlantic.

A few months ago the reservation was offered for sale for $300,000. Citizens of Westerly, R. I., were interested, and for a time it was thought the peninsula would be converted into a recreation park or a cluster of summer homes. But nothing definite was done, and recently it was announced the government will retain its whole holding of 56 acres.

Sergeant Eros was glad to hear that. Even with the terrific load of mixed responsibilities and duties under which he staggers, he has become attached to the fort, and would hate to leave it.

Private Harry Dell reserves his opinion for home use. Naturally, as a lone enlisted man exposed to the full and undivided attention of a whole sergeant, he is no chirping optimist.

But even Harry has his brighter days. Every now and then Commander Eros writes a pass for Sergeant Eros, and the Robinson Crusoe of Fort Mansfield takes the missus and kid and goes to the mainland for a day off, leaving Harry Dell in full charge.

Weather Forecast Used to Guide Churchgoers

Washington.—A minister using weather forecasts to fit the attendance to the capacity of his church and the services to the mood of the congregation as affected by the weather, is the latest way in utilizing the government's prognostications that has come to the attention of the weather bureau officials here.

The pastor of a large church in one of the country's large cities, whose office is unable to hold all that come in "good church weather," but which is not filled in inclement weather or fine outdoor weather, telephones the forecaster at the local weather bureau office every week for Sunday's weather prospects.

If the forecast indicates weather good enough for church, but not for golf or motoring, publicity through the newspapers is curtailed and no attempt is made to increase the attendance, as the church will be crowded to capacity without such efforts.

But if stormy or very fine weather is in prospect, special announcements of sermon and attractive musical programs are made in the newspapers and every means is used to arouse interest.

Tests Emotions by Use of a Collapsible Chair

Chicago.—Dr. W. E. Blatz of the psychology department of the University of Chicago has invented an instrument to test all the emotions. It is a collapsible chair, mounted by electricity. The subject is invited to a seat in the chair and then, during an aly conversation, the professor touches a button on his desk and the subject drops sheer to the floor, landing on the base of his spinal column.

The scientist quickly charts the emotions, fear, anger, humiliation. He often got this reaction: "What the—?" "I'll be—!" Which is a new phenomena in tests.

Lectures, fastened to the subject's arm, are connected with an electrocardiograph in another room, which records in detail the effect on his heart-beat and the change in his emotional state, both before, during and subsequent to the fall.

In several cases such anger was exhibited that Doctor Blatz was forced to flee from the room. Twenty-five students have been operated on now and the question of trying the instrument on the roads is under discussion. While the doctor feels that much revealing data might be collected from the girls he is afraid the emotion of indignation would swamp his chart.

Roosevelt Service Flag Given Museum

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—The service flag which hung from Sagamore Hill, home of the late Theodore Roosevelt, during the World war has been presented to the memorial museum at Roosevelt house, New York city.

The flag, measuring 3 by 4 feet, and of the familiar red and white design, has four blue stars worked in the center. It fluttered from an upper window of the colonel's Oyster Bay home. It was placed there the day of enlistment of the first member of the family and not removed until the last of the Roosevelts returned from overseas service.

The four sons were all decorated for bravery in action. Two of them were wounded and one killed.

Thousands at the Hawthorne race track, Chicago, were thrilled when Lillian Boyer, daredevil airplane acrobat, came close to death. LITTLE LA FOLLETTE SUPPORT

Self-Styled Progressive to Get Few Votes Here, Survey Shows.

Robert M. LaFollette, self-styled progressive candidate for President of the United States, will get comparatively few votes in Oneonta and vicinity, according to a survey made of voters' sentiments in this locality. And it appears that the number will be even less in election day if the present trend in sentiment away from him continues.

Most of the men who have expressed a preference for LaFollette appear to be backing him for his radical ideas with regard to labor and the courts. But the drift to LaFollette which was somewhat apparent when his candidacy was first announced is losing its force and sentiment now is swinging back to Coolidge, especially among a large number of railroad workers.

With the drives of all candidates getting under full steam as the last lap approaches, sentiment for Coolidge and Dawes is growing stronger. The dignified method in which President Coolidge is carrying on his campaign and the straight-from-the-shoulder speeches of General Dawes are having a winning effect upon the more sober minded and deeper thinking voters.

John W. Davis now appears to have little chance of drawing the normal number of Democratic votes in this locality and to be suffering the greatest loss in members of his party turning to the other two candidates with Coolidge having prospects of drawing by far the greatest number of Democratic votes.

L. P. Butts, chairman of the Otsego County Democratic committee declared that there is little sentiment for LaFollette and so far as he was aware there was no organized effort being made in behalf of his candidacy here.

"Sentiment for LaFollette," said Mr. Butts, "appears to have cooled down to a remarkable degree in comparison to that which existed when he announced his candidacy. It seems to be known mostly by a few voters, of unknown political tendencies and ideas. But I have not been able to Find More Indian Relics.

While walking in a pasture lot on the William Acker farm at Lawyerville, Schoharie county, on day last week, Charles Acker, son of the owner of the place, picked up an old Indian pipe, used in the long ago to grind corn. A further search by Acker revealed another similar implement in a similar condition, much larger than the first one found. The hill where the relics were found was the site of an Indian village in pre-revolutionary days and many arrow heads and other trophies of Indian warfare have been found there.

Dryden Barn of Edward Love Burns.

Walton, Oct. 2. — The barn of Edward Love of Dryden caught fire this afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock and burned to the ground. The barn was full of farm products, and the building and contents were a complete loss, the full amount not having been as yet determined. Mr. Love carried insurance with the town insurance company.

The workmen were engaged in filling the sink near the barn and it is believed that the blaze started from a spark from the engine.

HELD IN DEATH

George H. Winkler, Banghamton, Charged With Man-slaughter, When His Auto Hit Sid-ney Trooper

George H. Winkler of Banghamton, whose machine is alleged to have caused the death of S. G. VanKleeck, former State Trooper of Sidney, and to have seriously injured Mrs. VanKleeck, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Norwich on a charge of manslaughter in the first degree as a result of the accident.

VanKleeck died when the motorcycle in which he and his wife were riding were struck by the machine operated by Winkler on the highway between Oxford and Norwich Wednesday night. Winkler is alleged to have been drinking. Mrs. VanKleeck was taken to the Oxford hospital, where she is in a serious condition.

According to reports from the sheriff's office at Norwich, Winkler is said to have confessed that he drank a bottle of Canadian ale before leaving Banghamton in his machine and also to two arrests in Banghamton in connection with automobile accidents in which he was concerned.

Took Zig-Zag Course.

According to reports of the accident, Winkler is said to have been driving his car in a zig-zag course on the road and to have run entirely off the concrete on the wrong side, a short distance from where the collision took place. It appears that when the collision took place, Winkler was on the point of steering his car back onto his own side of the road, when it sideswiped the motorcycle in which Mr. and Mrs. VanKleeck were riding. VanKleeck was killed almost instantly and his wife was thrown for a distance of about ten feet.

Both were taken to the home of Bert Harrington a short distance from where the accident occurred, where it is said that Winkler immediately made a request for an onion and upon being given one, ate it raw. Winkler was taken to Norwich, where he was held until yesterday afternoon, when he was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in the first degree, arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ralph Walbridge in Oxford, and was released under $1,000 bond for examination next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

VanKleeck was widely known throughout Otsego county, where he had many friends, many of whom he made while serving as a member of Troop C, New York state constabulary, at Sidney.

He was born on December 3, 1894, at Davenport. His mother died when he was three weeks old. He had a long and commendable record in the army, having served four years in the Panama canal zone, after which he returned to Oneonta, where he was employed for some time by the Delaware & Hudson railroad. He then went back into the army and served on the Mexican border during the trouble with Mexico.

Marries Mexican Girl. About two years ago, he married Marion Burton of Guilford, while he was a member of the state police. He was then in Troop C, after four years of service and served for four years overseas during the World war and with the army of occupation.

Mr. VanKleeck then became a member of the Johnson City police department, where he served as motorcycle patrolman. He won a host of friends in his new position.

The body of Mr. VanKleeck still was in the undertaking rooms at Oxford last night awaiting final arrangements for funeral and burial. Several members of the Johnson City police department came to Norwich yesterday to make arrangements for the funeral. Because of Mrs. VanKleeck's serious condition, a statement of the circumstances under which the accident took place, was taken from her at the Oxford hospital yesterday by District Attorney Ward N. Truesdell and Sheriff J. M. Walworth.

An autopsy was held over VanKleeck's body yesterday afternoon and an inquest will be held this morning.

THE SWEETMAN PHARMACY

PROPERTY DEPENDS UPON DISTRIBUTION, SAYS ROBSON

takes a veritable crusade to cut sales costs and reduce selling expense.

"The situation presents a challenge to the hundred thousand young men who now have the opportunity of choosing a vocation. Some of them are in colleges or in universities undecided as to what they shall choose as a life work. Of course, they are not all fitted to serve in this particular field but to those young men who have the qualifications necessary for distribution work, and who have a desire to be of the largest public service rather than to make the large amount of money, I heartily commend the problem of more effective and economical distribution as a real job.

"The high cost of selling is responsible in a large part for the dullness of business experienced this year. Statistics are running far below what 1924 is running far below 1923. Those who forecast poor conditions for this year have been more than justified in their position. The immediate trend, however, is for the better and the speed of recovery will depend very largely upon our ability to solve this problem of more economical distribution. The readjustment is far more advanced than it was a year ago. People have learned needed lessons as to the necessity of honest industry and thrift. The foundation is ready for a solid and substantial advance. During the next few months the Babson chart stands at 8 per cent below normal will register our progress toward getting goods from the maker to the user more quickly and more cheaply."

What the World Is Doing

As Seen by Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Count Ten and Then Pull String in Leap from Plane

Two thousand feet in the air, a man in a heavy canvas flying suit crawls from the cockpit and edges his way along the wing of an airplane. Harrowed to his chest and back are two bulky packs. He hears the end of the wing, steadies himself a moment as he rises upright, waves one hand at the pilot, then calmly steps backward into space. As the body plunges downward his hips move rapidly, fixing the words: One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten! At ten he jerks a cord at his shoulder and out of the packs billows a great silk parachute. As it fills with air, the speed of the falling man slackens, until finally he is drifting downward for a safe landing. To the beginner, the task of counting to ten while hurtling through space is the most difficult part of parachute jumping—and yet one of the most important. The interval is deemed to make sure that the jumper is fully clear of the outstanding wires of the airplane before he releases his parachute. The lower picture shows a pilot whose life was saved at

Latest Parisian Fashion

Trimmed with the tails of horses, women's hats were introduced recently as the latest creation of a famous French designer. The tails are then brushed out, and the hat is finished with a small bow.

Preventing Sticky Counters

Under certain conditions, the counter of a machine may become sticky, and this may be prevented by the use of a special oil. This oil is applied to the counter, and it prevents the counter from becoming sticky. The oil is sold by your druggist.

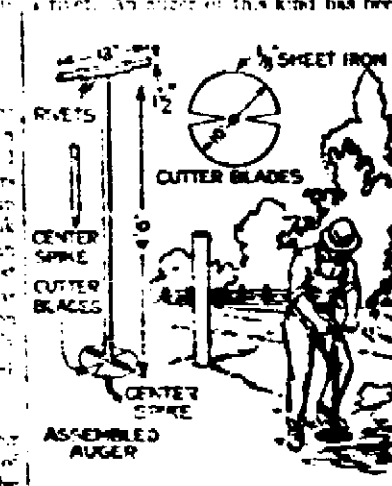

Flowers can be preserved in all their beauty by placing them in a bottle of flowers. The bottle is made of glass, and it is filled with a special liquid. The flowers are then placed in the bottle, and they are preserved for a long time.

Cleaning Steel of Burnt Oil

The oil, coming in contact with steel in hardening, will burn in places, and is hard to remove. The cleaning can be accomplished by immersing the hardened steel in gasoline, and, when exposed to the air, it will dry immediately. This will leave parts to be polished without the marks of burnt oil.

A Serviceable Post-Hole Auger

A serviceable post-hole auger can readily be made by anyone. It consists of a 1/2-in. length of 1 1/2-in. pipe. Both ends are cut square, and the pipe is then bent over and flattened, as shown, so that a handle and a blade can be attached. The handle is made of an 18-in. length of hardwood, about 1 1/2 in. thick, and is secured to the bent end of the pipe. A 10-in. steel disk, about 1/2 in. thick, is riveted to the other end, and the edges of the disk are bent to "bite" the soil. A 1/2-in. auger rod is then inserted into the hole in the disk, and is held in place by means of a nut. An arrow of this kind has been found about the workshop.

Being satisfactory wire for about two years and the metal cost of the material was only 1 cent, so most of it is found about the workshop.

McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, as a German war plane which he saw break up high in the air. The pilot leaped from the wreckage and landed safely. The plane, taken just after he reached ground, is the lower left-hand picture, and the pilot parachute which he used to pull him out of the plane.
